

A METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR PROTECTING A CIRCUIT
DURING A HOT SOCKET CONDITION

Abstract of the Disclosure

The hot socket detect circuit of the present invention includes a well bias circuit and three hot socket detect blocks. If the output of any of the three hot socket detect blocks is a digital high signal then the output of the hot socket detect circuit is a digital high signal. The digital high signal indicates that a hot socket condition exists.